LONDON, July 28.—The continuation of the Russian menace in the Far East, cou pled with the absence of effective British support of Japan in the present crisis, has evoked severe criticism of the management of the Brtish Foreign Office.

Arnold White, the well-known writer. severely contrasts its efficiency with the methods of the American State Department. He says in an article just published that the latest phase of England's relations with China is the transfer of all influence in the negotiations on the subject of the open door in Manchuria from Downing street to Washington. Pressure from the United States receives prompt and courteous attention from Count Lamsdorff, the Russian Foreign Minister, but the British Foreign Office and the British Ambassador at St. Petersburg are ignored and laughed at.

It is deeply humiliating to British taxpayers that only the protest of the United States at present holds in abeyance complete Russian absorption and assimilation of the province of Manchuria. Mr. White proceeds:

"The United States State Department is generally regarded by professional diplomatists who know its inner workings as possessing the best intelligence department regarding foreign affairs generally of all the nations

The United States intelligence department has full knowledge of the customs prevalent in foreign diplomacy. It knows who the secret agents of the various powers are. and how secret service money is employed. It is knowledge of this old diplomacy that induced the United States to inaugurate a policy of straightforward business dealing with other countries."

A despatch from Yokohama says that M. Pavloff, the Russian Minister to Corea. having objected to a Japanese telegraph line from Seoul to Fusan prior to the building of the Russian line, the Corean Government has asked M. Gen. von Witzleben, who is a leading authority, thinks that the following is an accurate estimate of the army in the Amur district: Infantry, 80,000; cavalry, 14,000; field artillery, 4,000, with 168 guns; siege artillery, 4,000, and technical

Gen. von Witzleben adds that heavy bodies of troops can be pushed up to the Amur district from the reserves of the infantry brigades, which would bring the Amur forces up to 150,000 men.

RIOTING GOES ON IN RUSSIA. Murder and Incendiarism Reported-Princes

Killed by Peasants. Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. LONDON, July 27 .- Details of serious rioting in Russian industrial centres, information concerning which the St. Petersburg Government is trying to suppress, are given in a mailed despatch to the Times which says that one of the largest petro eum works in Baku has been set on fire and part of the railway track destroyed. The press is only permitted to announce that naphtha factories in Transcaucasia have stopped operations. While serious strikes increase in nearly all the Russian industrial centres, there is a continuation of agrarian riots and outrages among the peasantry. The Times mentions that Prince Gagarine. who was marshal of the nobility of Riazan, was brutally murdered by peasants on his estate in the Michaelosk district. Princess Gagarine, his wife, was severely beaten. The correspondent does not attempt to describe the horrible manner in which the Prince was killed, as the system of official suppression often leads to exaggeration. According to Russian reports, another nobleman in the same district, Prince Urusoff, has also been killed. A large force of troops has been hurried to the Michaelosk district by train

There is a third category of crimes more directly allied with politics than those above mentioned. The Times mentions the capture of the chief organizer of the assassination of Gen. Bogdanovitch, late Governor of Afa, and of an attempt on the life of Gen. von Wahl, ex-Governor of Wilns, and of other criminal acts. The prisoner is a Russian Jew holding a foreign medical degree. German Chamber of Commerce Wants the Government to Act.

Special Cable Desputch to THE SUN BERLIN, July 26 .- The British Govern ment has begun to exchange notes with the Government here in regard to the regula tion of Anglo-German commercial relathons. Germany hopes to arrive at a pacific understanding on the subject.

The Chamber of Commerce of Gera, in report referring to the decrease in German wool exports to the United States from 27,900,000 marks in 1890 to 7,300,000 marks in 1900, contends that the McKinley and Dingley tariffs are responsible for the reduction. It urges the Government to take up a strong line of action, as Germany in 1900 sold to the United States goods to the value of only 420,000,000 warks, whereas the value of its purchases amounted to 1,006,000,-000 marks.

SOLDIERS DIE OF SUNSTROKE. Many Overcome During the Austro-Hu garian Manœuvres.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN.
VIENNA, July 26.—Many deaths from sunstroke occurred during the military manœuvres between Trebinje and Bilek, in Herzegovina. Two battalions of the Twelfth Austro-Hungarian Infantry started at dawn on a mountain march, each man carrying fifty pounds of field service equipment. The temperature at noon reached 130 degrees Fahrenheit. Hungarian papers report that 400 men fell out of the ranks and were left on the road The War Office admits that fifteen of the soldiers died, that forty were taken in an unconscious and critical condition to the hospital and that sixty others were seriously prostrated by the heat.

Compared with this list it is recalled that when Fort Trebinje was stormed by the Austro-Hungarian troops in 1878, the casualties on the Austrian side were only nine men killed and twelve wounded.

John McAvoy, a life guard at Stauch's bathing pavilion at Coney Island, and Miss Jessie Monski, an athletic young woman of 47 Summer avenue, Brooklyn, were the principals in a spectacular surf rescue vesterday afternoon in plain sight of thousands of people on the beach at the island. Miss Monski is known as one of the most expert and daring women swimmers who make a practice of bathing at Coney. Yesterday, after she had been in the water for some time, she and a number of others started out to the bell buoy, about half a mile away from Stauch's pavilion The tide was running out strong and the trip was made quickly. The swimmers rested a few minutes at the buoy and then

MARRIAGE ENDS CAB CHASE

TRATELLING WEDDING PARTY STRIKES CALVARY CHURCH.

Baptist, With No Rule Against a Divorced Person-It Took Until T P. M. Yesterday to Wind Up the Expedition Begun on Saturday Night in the Tenderloin-Edwin Hoff and Lucille Chency Are One

The newspapers were accommodated last night with an account of a wedding, presumably unique among such chronicle in that it contained all-or even more than all-the necessary particulars except the names of the bridegroom and the bride. Seldom has a press agent hit on that kind of a story.

This, of course, was the wedding that Mr. W. G. Camp of the Lambs Club, husband of Elita Proctor Otis, the actress, was pioneering on a cab all Saturday night. His energies, which did not flag until 5 o'clock Sunday morning, were in active operation again yesterday afternoon, with the result that he landed a minister and got the two throbbing souls that had travelled in the cab with him, with the presses throbbing behind, made one at o'clock in the evening, in the Sunday school room of Calvary Baptist Church in Fifty-seventh street. The Rev. Frank Rogers Morse, assistant paster of the church, officiated.

Yesterday's Sun told how the Lambs Club man appealed at 11:30 Saturday night to the Tenderloin police to find a Magistrate for him; and, finding none set out after a clergyman after midnight with a troop pursuing. It came out yesterday that Mr. Camp had already been disappointed by one clergyman at least. That clergyman was the Rev. Dr. Houghton, rector of the "Little Church Around the Corner," to which actor folk and press agents of the Camp had already been disappointed by one clergyman at least. That clergyman was the Rev. Apparently it was to the "Little Church Around the Corner" that Mr. Camp's couple went first on Saturday night. It was about 10:30 o'clock.

"I decline to perform marriages as late as that," said Dr. Houghton yesterday, in speaking of the visit, "but I sent my curate to see the couple. My curate asked them right away if either had been divorced and one of them-1 don' know whichanswered in the affirmative. The curate then told them that we could not marry my divorced persons. and wanted to know if we had married such a couple. He said that he was the father of the girl and that he had understood that the marriage had taken place week ago. Then he went away. I don't snow his name either."

Yesterday afternoon some one called up Calvary Baptist Church on the telephone and a man's voice asked if it would be possible to have a marriage performed at the church.

The sexton said that the only person to answer that was Mr. Morse, the minister, who is in charge in the absence of Dr. MacArthur. Apparently Mr. Morse was reached at his home by the marriage seekers and he agreed to perform the ceremony at 7 o'clock, an hour before the evening service at the church.

At that hour two carriages drove up to the church. One of them, a big carriage, contained four persons, two women and two men, and the other, a hansom, two young women and a man.

The bride and bridegroom had a short confab with the minister and then all went into the Sunday school room, and Mr. Morse performed the marriage. The bride, who did not look much over 22, carried a big bunch of Bride roses and wore a light travelling suit. The bridegroom appeared at least 45, according to a person who wit-Miss Monski before she was restored to away.

"If Dr. Houghton refused to marry them because one of them was divorced it's none of my business," said Mr. Morse, "I've married a great many divorced people. young man, a great many. There's no rule against the practice here that I know of."

Mr. Camp and his wife returned home early this morning and said that the bridegroom was Edwin W. Hoff, a tenor for a number of years with the Bostonians, but now in the insurance business, and the bride, Lucille Cheney, 21 years old of Denver.

DR. LAVELLE ON LEO XIII. First Formal Service in the Cathedral for the Dead Pontiff.

The first formal and official requiem service held in St. Patrick's Cathedral for Leo XIII. was celebrated yesterday at the solemn high mass, when the Rev. Dr. Lavelle, rector of the Cathedral, de livered the panegyric on the dead Pontiff. The Rev. Thomas Murphy, assistant to Dr. Lavelle celebrated the mass. On the high altar, which was heavily draped with black velvet, were no flowers, and even the massive candelabra were draped with crepe. A white Roman cross stood in the centre of the altar.

Father Lavelle, in his discourse, said:

The most striking features of the reign of eo XIII, were the establishment of comhissions for education; the reconciliation of and Russia with the Holy See Germany and Russia with the Holy See; the rehabilitation of the hierarchy in Scotland; the establishment of a Papal Delegate in the United States, and the founding of a university for America; his efforts for universal peace and for the remion of all the churches of Christendom; his declaration in favor of the French Republic, which has proved so ungrateful to him; his efforts for the amelioration of the plain people without bloodshed, injustice or revolution, and at all times his warm friendship for America.

Dr. Lavelle announced yesterday th officers and celebrants of services to be held in the Cathedral to morrow evening and on Wednesday morning. To-morrow night, Archbishop Farley will preside, assisted by the Revs R.O. Hughes, of the Cathedral staff, and M Ungerer as chanters, while the lessons will be given by Fathers J. Kellner of New Rochelle, Lammel of St. Joseph's Church, Keane of Holy Name, McGean of St. Peter' Connor of St. Stephen's and Dr. Lavelle of the Cathedral.

Archbishop Farley will be assisted in the plemn requiem mass on Wednesday by Mgr. Edwards as assistant priest. Dear Burtsell of Rondout and Dr. Brann of St Agnes's Church as deacons of honor, th Rev. Thomas McLoughlin as deacon of the mass, and the Rev. Ubaldo Maravelli, the nephew of Cardinal Satolli, as sub-deacon Mayor Low and all the city officials hav seen invited to attend the requiem mass. Six of the suffragan Bishops are ex-pected to attend the Archbishop's service and in addition to these, Bishop Maes of Covington, Ky., Bishop McFaul of Trenton and Bishop Keiley of Savannah will be present and give the absolution.

SUMMER WHITE HOUSE TOPICS. SOLDIER GUARD IN DANVILLE.

PRESENCE OF TROOPS BRINGS PEACE TO THE CITY.

One Killed and Fourteen Injured in the Attempt to Lynch a Man in Jail -Deputy Took the Prisoner Out of Harm's Way During the Serious Trouble

DANVILLE, Ill., July 26.-Last night's mob rule in this city, when one negro was lynched and an attempt to lynch another was foiled, was fiendish. Troops are on guard to-day. The city to-day feels the disgrace keenly. For several months there has been ill feeling between the negroes and a certain grade of white people, but the clash came suddenly.

The news that Sheriff Whitlock had captured and placed in the county jail James Wilson, the negro who attempted to assault Mrs. Thomas Burgess at Alvan on Friday, was followed closely by the murder o Henry Gatterman in a street riot. The police succeeded in getting J.D. Mayfield, Gatterman's murderer, to the city prison, but were soon overpowered by the infuriated mob. They went through the prison, smashing doors and windows until they found the negro.

At first Mayfield showed fight, but was overpowered and thrown through a window to the pavement below, where the mob kicked and best him into insensibility.

A rope was placed around his neck and he was dragged through the main streets of the town in a nude condition. As they neared the scene of the murder a woman cried out, "Burn him! Burn the man!" The crowd cheered loudly and started to prepare the fire. While this was being done, part of the mob stole the body and took it in front of the county court house and there it was burned. Then a man climbed on a box holding a revolver in each hand. He fired two shots to draw attention, sayings "On to the jail; we'll get the rest." Sheriff Whitlock then appeared and tried to talk to the crowd, warning them that if tolence was shown he would resist with bullets. The crowd secured a street railroad rail and battered in the doors. "I then came out on the porch to argue with them," said Mr. Whitlock. "Immediately two shots rang out, the bullets striking the wall behind me.

I fired two shots in the air with my shot gun to frighten them, but the crowd answered, 'He's shooting blanks.'

"Then I let them have it in the legs and drove them back to the street, but they soon attacked the front door, which is my living apartments and occupied by my wife and children, for whose safety I now felt alarmed.

"Mrs. Whitlock said, 'Give me a gun and I'll stand with you,' but after getting my family out of the way I went out on the front porch. Several bullets came near me and I opened fire with my shotgun, shooting down the iron rail held by about one hundred. This accounts for so many being wounded in the hands.'

This drove the crowd again into the street and the Sheriff patrolled the porch for about two hours in a volley of stones which have left their marks all over the front of the jail.

The Sheriff had four deputies and three constables, all of whom were armed, but none fired except Whitlock.

Meantime Deputy York slipped Wilson out by the basement door and took him out of the county. He was returned at 4:30 in the morning without being seen. Gradually the crowd weakened and went home, until at 4 o'clock only small groups stood around discussing the night. Threats were made that they would get the man to-night. The arrival of four companies of the First Battalion of the Seventh Regiment of Chicago dispersed the crowd. A heavy guard was placed around the There are many who resent the presence of the troops and rumors of dynamite are current, but it is thought that the trouble is over. During the rioting fourteen persons were more or less injured.

INNOCENT NEGRO LYNCHED. Posse Got the Wrong Man After a Chase of

Many Days. SAVANNAH, Ga., July 26 .- An innocent negro was lynched by the mob which hought it had followed Ed Clauss through even counties from Darien Junction to the southern part of Dodge county, where the supposed assailant was captured. He was tied to a tree and his body riddled with bullets, despite his frantic protests of innocence.

A young white woman of Darien Junction, Miss Susie Johnson, was assaulted by Edward Clause, and a posse of citizens of Liberty and McIntosh counties at once went in pursuit. Following him, as they thought for days, the track was kept and at last in a swamp on the Ocmulgee the negro whom they were chasing was found asleep The mob would accept no denials and short work was made of the black.

Clauss, the negro who assaulted Miss Johnson, has been found in a small village near Darien Junction, where he was reared. and is in jail.

CLOSED TO HEAD OFF RAIDS It's Said Walsh Was Planning to Catch O'Connor Through Morrell's Places.

There was much speculation in the Tenderloin yesterday as to the reason for the sudden closing on Saturday of Frank Morrell's gambling house on Sixth avenue between Twenty-seventh and Twentyeighth streets. and then let Capt. O'Connor do some explaining.

Flat robbers have been reaping a harvest in the Park Slope section of Brooklyn in the past two months and the victims complain that the police have not caught a single thief or recovered any of the stoler property. Most of the thefts have taken place in the eighborhood of Prospect Park West. neighborhood of Prospect Park West. In two months sixty cases have been reported to the police of the Fifth avenue station, in which precinct nearly all the robberies have taken place, but so far they have got no trace of the thieves.

Capt. Reynolds, formerly head of the Brooklyn Detective Bureau, is in command of the precinct. Some of the residents are talking of organizing a committee to wait upon Deputy Commissioner Ebstein and ask him to send over detectives from Manhattan to catch the thieves tives from Manhattan to catch the thieves or at least scare them from the district where they are working.

WOMEN HELPED POLICEMAN.

Car Passengers Took Care of Foundling He Was Carrying to a Hospital. Policeman Vorhees of the West 152d street station found a month-old girl baby in a vacant lot at 194th street and Amster dam avenue, near Fort George, yesterday afternoon. The baby was healthy and happy and wore good clothes. The cap and wrapper were white silk. and wrapper were white silk.

Vorhees carried the child to Bellevue Hospital. Several women in the train became interested and they took turns all the way downtown at holding the founding.

"Does she look like her father?" asked one woman "Wish I knew," said Vorhees. "That would be a clue.

Saloons Near Puget Sound Navy Yard

Closed. TACOMA, Wash., July 26 .- The Superior Court has at last upheld Secretary of the Navy Moody and the Mayor and Council of Bremerton in their fight to close every saloon at Bremerton adjacent to the Puget Sound navy yard. Judge Denny decided that the Mayor of Bremerton had authority to close the saloons under the new ordinance Secretary Moody made a continuation of navy repair work at Bremerton condi-tional upon the closing of every saloon.
